

Instructions for Authors

General information The journal "Policija i sigurnost" (Police and Security) publishes reviewed scientific and professional papers from the field of police science and law enforcement, criminal investigation, substantive criminal law, criminal procedure law and correctional law, international public and criminal law, national security, criminology, penology, victimology, forensic medicine, forensic psychology and psychiatry and related fields (the history of the police, forensic anthropology, criminal investigation statistics). The journal also publishes papers in the columns From Practice to Practice, Police Procedures and Case Law, Views and Opinions, Reviews and Comments and Student's Papers. Before scientific and professional articles are published, they are subjected to double-blind peer review process. Articles are published in Croatian and English.

The Editorial Board accepts only unpublished works that have not been submitted elsewhere for publication. The manuscript, written in Microsoft Word, should be submitted through the OJS system: <https://hrcak.srce.hr/ojs/index.php/polsig>.

Manuscript preparation

A manuscript should have up to 36,000 characters with spaces. The Editorial Board reserves the right to edit the manuscript according to the general rules of journal editing.

The full name of the author (or multiple authors, separated by a comma) should be printed at the left-top corner of the first page, and their research-teaching and/or teaching title, the name of the institution and their position should be written in the footnote. The title of the paper should be written in bold capital letters in the centre, and it should be concise and informative.

Furthermore, the manuscript to be reviewed should contain an abstract in Croatian and English, not exceeding 250 words, which summarizes the contents of the article, a general review of the topic, the methodology of work, the hypothesis, etc. Keywords, not more than six, should follow the abstract.

A manuscript should contain an introduction, a body (divided into headings and subheadings) and a conclusion. The titles of the introduction, headings, and conclusion should be written in capital letters, and the subheading titles should be written in small letters.

If there are pictures, graphs and other graphic illustrations within the text, the number and the caption should be written below (legend up to two lines). Footnotes are used for additional comments or explanations.

Citing references

Information on citing references or quoting directly from the text should be written at the end of the text or within the text – in parentheses. The citing reference should include the author's surname and the year of publication. If the part of the text is quoted directly from the text, the page numbers should also be mentioned. [For example, for citing a reference (Dujmović, 2003) or quoting (Modly, 1996:53).]

At the end of the manuscript, a list of references should be numbered and listed in alphabetical order of authors' names. If more than one item by a specific author is cited, they should be listed chronologically (the latest first).

Types of references are as follows:
